of the murder, the counsel for the-crown carefully eliciting every point. A pin could have been heard to drop when Cary detailed how he saw seven men meet the two gentlemen. He said Curiey, Joseph Hanlan, and Fagan were the first, Brady and Kelly were next, and McCaffrey and Patrick Delaney came after. When Carey again looked the two rear men had closed in on the two gentlemen.
The witness continued: I saw Joseph Brady raising his left hand and striking a man dressed in a gray suit. That was all I saw. Here there was a sensation in the court-room and loud cries of "Hush." I I timed my own movements accurately during the day. What I related occurred at 7:17 P. M.

BIBANDISM AND FENIANISM.

London, February 19.—The correspondent of the Times at Dublin says there is little doubt that the authorities will be able to connect the conspiracy with ribandism as well as with Fenianism.

THE LONDON "TIMES" ON THE SUSPICIONS RAISED BY CAREY'S EVIDENCE.

The Times, in a leading article, says the suspicions raised by the evidence given by 7:17 P. M. THE MURDERERS.

After I left the Park I met at the Island bridge Joe Smith, a person who was acquainted with Mr. Burke's appearance, and had accompanied me for the purpose of pointing him out. It was Smith who told Kayanagh to hurry up and take the nosebag off; the witness repeated the conversation he had after the murder with Brady, who stated that he had stabbed Mr. Burke and afterwards settled Lord Frederick Cavendish; after that he went back to Mr. Burke and put a knife in his throat. Brady said: "Lord Frederick Cavendish, when spite of the warnings of those best acquainted with Ireland, leaped at Parnell's without the ladded of the Cavendish, when spite of the warnings of those best acquainted with Ireland, leaped at Parnell's windows Assil and BLINDS, LUMBER, CEDAR, CHINA-PRESS, HAT-RACKS.

Carey admitted making the prearranged signal with a white handkerehief. Curley, he said, directed the arrangements at the scene of the murder. Carey, on Mr. Burke being identified by Smith, pointed him out to Curley as the man in the gray suit. Curiey told Carey to tell smith to last handed to No. 1 his resignation as one of the four leaders of the Invincibles. Before the court adjourned Carey formally identified all the prisoners. Several of the latter as they were put forward for identication called Carey a "perjured liar." Pat. Delaney, who looked very ill, said solennly, "That is the man (meaning Carey) I may thank for all my misfortunes from childhood." Fitzharris and Joe Smith were not identified by Carey as Invincibles. The last time Carey saw No. 1 was at the end of September or the beginning of October. It was at the the beginning of October. It was at the Black Rock station. Carey then told him of the disappearance of the other knives and rifles which had been hidden in Cumand rifles which had been hidden in Cumberland street. During the giving of the evidence Brady was seen crouched behind two of the other prisoners. The rest of the prisoners appeared dejected, except James Mullett, who wore a defiant look. The hearing will be resumed on Monday. It was finally decided to-day to admit henceforth about eighty of the public into the courtroom during the examination of the prisoners.

LATER-NO. 1 AN IRISH-AMERICAN.

A special to the same paper, dated Sunday, says:

The tedividual alluded to in Carey's testimony as "Number One" is an Irish-American, but resided some time in France and Germany. He appeared to have the disposal of an unlimited supply of money. A targe banking firm in Paris, which was by him given as reference, replied: "The gentleman in question has, seemingly, unlimited means derived from large drafts from America." "Number One" is about five feet ton inches high; is well preserved, has a full face, and long hair and mustache. He is slightly lame in the right leg from the effects of a wound received during the Pranco-German war. He also served in the American war. The police believe he has gone to America.

THE EXAMINATION RESUMED—THE OBJECT OF THE FENIANS.

DUBLIN, February 19.—The hearing of the prisoners charged with conspiring to murder Government officials was resumed to-day. All the prisoners were again placed in the dock. Amid hisses one of the pri-soners shouted, "Future Lord-Mayor Ca-rey." The latter shook his head menacingly at his former comrades. His examination respects most important part of his testimony was, however, meagre in details, as sent ps, and we therefore copy the following from the Herald's special:

There were also two men named Dwyer, one of whom has gone to America. On the morning of May 6th he met Smith, a laborer employed about the Castle, who knew Mr. Burke's appearance. Witness confirmed the details of Kavanagh's testimony concerning a car being at Wren's public house, with Brady, Kelly, McCaffrey, and Delaney. The witness created a painful sensation by saying that he had two of his little children with him in the cab early on the morning of the 6th of May, when he was going of the 6th of May, when he was going in the first special:

He spoke more confidently than he did on Saturday, and replied to the cross-examination of counsel sharply and testily. He deposed, amid hisses by the prisoners, that he belonged to the Fenians, but not to the Supreme Council. The object of the Fenians was to separate Ireland from England, the former country being then harassed by coercion. He had no idea that Lord-Mayor Carey.
